

David Lynch Discusses "Inland Empire"

December 2006

"Once the entire three-hour film was edited and output into its native Mini DV format and the audio mixed, the final mastering and film out (the most high-end steps in the process) commenced at FotoKem in Burbank. Lynch has nothing but high praise for the lab. "I love the quality I get there, and the attitude of the people is very positive," he says, adding, "They are happy campers over at FotoKem."

read the full article here